How to prepare to use Zoom

Where do I find the Zoom link for my course?

- 1) A registration confirmation will be emailed to you after you pay for your course. This email will contain the Zoom link. Remember to make note of this email and create a folder in your inbox labeled “OLLI Zoom” and save it.
- 2) A course reminder will be emailed to you four days prior to the start date of the course. This email will also contain the Zoom link. Again, make note and save it.

If you can, print out the emails; otherwise save them somewhere in your email inbox. By creating a folder in your inbox for your OLLI Zoom links, you won't have to search through your emails later.

What devices do I need to use Zoom?

At the most basic level, all you need to use Zoom is a telephone, such as a smartphone or landline. However, if you have access to a computer or mobile device you can use the full capabilities of Zoom. The following equipment will enhance your experience:

- Mobile devices, including laptops with cameras and built-in microphones.
- Web camera on your device: A camera will increase your connection with your instructor and your peers by allowing you to see each other face-to-face. If you do not have access to a web camera, you will still be able to see the instructor.
- Headset with a microphone: This will let you hear and be heard more clearly. This does not need to be fancy equipment; it can be the same as the headphones you might use with your phone.

How do I join a Zoom meeting?

You will receive a Zoom link for your upcoming OLLI at UNL course(s) in your registration confirmation email, and in a reminder email prior to class. Next to or underneath each class title, you will see a link. Copy and paste that link into your web browser OR click on the link to enter the digital classroom. If your course has multiple sessions, you will use the same link every week the course meets.

A Zoom account is not required to attend a class session. Anyone can attend a class session using their laptop or desktop (Windows or Mac), tablet, or smartphone (iPhone or Android). A free download of Zoom is available in your app store for your device.

- If you have not used Zoom before, allow about five minutes to set it up before your first use.
- If you use a laptop or desktop, the first time you click on a link it will download a free and secure program to your computer.
- If you use a tablet or smart phone, you will need to download the free and secure Zoom application from your app store.

Unmatched & Unequaled: America's Contributions to Victory in World War II (Part 1) – 6 sessions

HIS069R

When Americans discuss World War II, they rightfully recall how its economy, manpower, transportation, and military innovations contributed to victory. We will examine America's crucial innovations that Allied or Axis belligerents could not match or equal. America's creation, development, and use of the Marine Corps' amphibious assault, the Navy's carrier aviation, and an introduction to U.S. Strategic bombing. If America had not developed these innovations, our world would be severely different and doubtfully for the better. Repeated from Term 1.

Unmatched & Unequaled: America's Contributions to Victory in World War II (Part 2) – 5 sessions

HIS076R

In this second part of the course, we will examine the war experience of U.S. Strategic Bombing as well as the home front's skilled manpower, powerful economy, and dynamic transportation all combined to achieve victory far sooner and with fewer lives lost. America's investment of time, lives, and money in these innovations over several decades before the nation's entry into the war paid the ultimate dividend: Allied victory.

MONDAYS

Black Homesteaders in Nebraska and the Great Plains

DeWitty, Nebraska, later known as Audacious, was the largest and longest-lasting African American settlement in Nebraska. The settlers began arriving in 1906 attracted by the Kinkaid Act offering 640 acres of free land in the Sandhills. Edwards' 2019 study found records showing that around 3,400 black homesteaders successfully claimed their land in nine Great Plains states and earned title to it after five years. Approximately 15,000 family members worked to obtain nearly 650,000 acres. They endured all the risks and burdens of other homesteaders, in addition to social isolation and finding eligible marriage partners. Black communities created rich cultural and civic lives to establish churches, schools, baseball teams, reading circle, musical groups. Learn the history surrounding this story of Black achievement, struggle, persistence and risk-taking.

Faux CFP Football Rankings

College football's playoff era is entering its tenth season. The designated number of participants in this activity will join the facilitator in forming a faux College football playoff (CFP) selection committee. Using a process like that of the real committee, participants will select and rank a weekly Top 25 from mid-season on, culminating in the final four that should be in the playoff for the national championship. The art of selecting and ranking teams can be based on several criteria. The fun is in the process of collecting and analyzing information, assessing the outcomes of regular season games, applying the criteria, voting to determine rankings and comparing decisions with those of the real CFP committee.

Civil Discourse Part II

A recent study found that one in six Americans stopped speaking to a family member or close friend after the 2016 election. The divide may only have gotten worse since then. Is there a way to change the trajectory of political polarization? This three-session course offered by Civic Nebraska will highlight the story of Americans with opposing viewpoints, investigating their differences and the concerns and experiences that lie behind each viewpoint.

We will start with a film called "Purple," featuring residents of rural Wisconsin and Iowa. Then we will hear from community members who have put politics aside to rekindle friendships or gathered with residents of different backgrounds and ideologies to have meaningful discussions. We will address barriers to engaging in civil discourse conversations and examine potential solutions. During the final session, participants will model the role of elected officials and community members with a mock public meeting.

Samuel Bak Museum: Holocaust Survivor and Artist

ART0880

Samuel Bak, born in 1933 in Poland, and his mother, survived the Holocaust. His father and four grandparents did not. Bak and his mother fled Poland and found refuge in Munich, Germany. In 2021, Bak donated over 512 paintings to the University of Nebraska-Omaha. The works showcase the arc of his artistic career over eight decades. Now, a museum in his name offers opportunities to engage in dialogue on artistic expression, human rights, Holocaust education, and genocide. Curator Alexandra Cardon explores themes of survival, migration, memory, suffering and justice. After her presentation, take time to enjoy the exhibits in the museum.

Voting Rights, Voting Laws

The U.S. Constitution, ratified by all states in 1790, and the first 10 Amendments, known as the Bill of Rights and ratified in 1791, granted certain “express powers” to the federal government with the remaining powers reserved to the states or to “the people.” Abolishing slavery and extending voting rights were not fully confronted until after the Civil War. The 13th, 14th and 15th Amendments ended slavery, granted citizenship with expanded voting rights and extended equal protection under the law to include state governments. The 19th, 24th and 26th Amendments further expanded voting rights. Beginning in 1965, Congress finally adopted strong, enforceable voting rights laws. However, many states adopted laws to thwart those federal laws. Legal battles shifted to the State Supreme Courts and the U.S. Supreme Court. This course will examine those battles, which continue today.

The Lincoln, Pershing, and Mural Connection

Explore the fascinating connection between General John J. Pershing, the Pershing Mural, and the city of Lincoln. Pershing was stationed at the University of Nebraska for a short time in the early-1890's but retained a long-standing relationship with Lincoln until his death in 1948. The mural that greeted people entering the Pershing Center for over a 59-year period is a unique work of ceramics in many respects. General Pershing retired from military service in 1924 but his connection to Lincoln continued for several years so that when a very much needed auditorium was completed in 1957 his name was attached to it. The auditorium is being torn down, but the mural has been preserved and is planned for installation at Wyuka Park. Don't miss the fascinating story that connects a general, a mural, and a city.

Wisdom, Justice, Power and Mercy: Advocating for Change in the Nebraska Unicameral

Carved into the north entrance of the Nebraska State Capitol are four imposing figures: Wisdom, Justice, Power, and Mercy. Identified as the “constant guardians of the law,” these carvings remind all who enter the building of the four fundamental tenets of law-making. At a time when families are torn apart by politics and friends no longer speak to each other because of political differences, these guardians are needed now more than ever. Join Kaitlin Reece, a long-time public policy advocate, as she takes you inside the halls of the Nebraska Capitol, where you will learn how to advocate for change in your neighborhood, city, and community. Together, we will examine these themes of wisdom, justice, power, and mercy from a faith perspective and a moral perspective, exploring how these constant guardians can inspire people, religious and non-religious, to promote the common good through public policy.

"Something Wicked This Way Comes": Witchcraft in Europe and America

"Something wicked this way comes" is a line famously spoken by the witches in Shakespeare's Macbeth, first published in 1623. For centuries to the present day, witches have captured our imagination. Particularly from the fifteenth to the seventeenth century in Europe and then in the American colonies many people, mostly women, were accused of being witches. We will examine the religious, political, and social changes and crises that caused the witch craze to occur. We will also look at specific cases of accused witches and witchfinders, and the evidence that was accepted to "prove" that someone was a witch. We will analyze what happened by the late seventeenth century when the belief in witches receded. Yet as the interest in witches in Europe was declining, the trials were beginning in New England, culminating in months of accusations started by girls in Salem.

Danger to the Queen: Elizabeth and Assassination Attempts

Queen Elizabeth I of England was a well-beloved queen. She was also the subject of many assassination plots and attempts, particularly by Catholics, as she was a strong Protestant queen. The situation worsened in 1568, since many Catholics considered her cousin, Mary Queen of Scots, now under house arrest by order of Elizabeth, to be the rightful queen, and they were willing to attempt anything to put her on the throne. We will examine one of the attempts on Elizabeth's life. In addition, we will examine sixteenth and seventeenth century texts that deal with this attempt.

Shakespeare's First Folio: 400 Years of Literary History

L&L036L

Shakespeare's First Folio was published in 1623, seven years after his death. To celebrate this 400-year milestone, see The First Folio along with other English Renaissance books from UNL's Special Collections. 750 folios were printed, and about 220 still exist. Recently, one sold at auction for more than $2,000,000. Learn how the Folio came to be part of the UNL Special Collections and why this book has such an important place in English literature and history. We will have an opportunity for an up close and personal look at the fully restored First Folio (complete with wine stains and notations in the margins), as well as a short performance of a scene from one of Shakespeare's plays by UNL students. We will also view a number of other rare books from UNL Special Collections, which will be a different set from those discussed at last year's First Folio class.

Books Once Popular but Now Forgotten

Every now and then, there are books that catch the attention of the general public, and for a while everyone is thinking about them and engaging in discussions about them. The new ideas expressed in them are found to be interesting and intellectually stimulating. Then after a few years they just disappear from the public consciousness. They are forgotten. But that often doesn't mean they should be forgotten. We will examine a number of such works from recent decades, generally non-fiction 'idea' books, to see if they deserve to be 'resurrected.' Is there some 'real substance' there that's being neglected? Some examples: "The True Believer;" "Walden II;" "The Two Cultures; The End of History;" "On the Road; Amusing Ourselves to Death;" "Cultural Literacy: What Every American Needs to Know;" and "Zen and the Art of Motorcycle Maintenance."

The U.S. Constitution from the Founding to the Civil War

The U.S. is founded on a group of rich and diverse ideas that are sometimes in tension with one another. Many of those ideas can be found in the U.S. Constitution and the intricate body of laws, traditions and norms that comprise our constitutional heritage.

This course, created as one of DVD The Great Courses, is a history of those ideas: of the Constitution itself, of constitutional law and ideas and of constitutional conflicts from day one to the present.

The first five weeks of the course will use DVDs to cover the first 10 lessons in The Great Courses set, issues including the ideas that prompted the American Revolution, early constitutional problems under the Articles of Confederation, the Constitutional Convention, the ratification process, westward expansion and numerous constitutional issues regarding slavery. The last week will feature an in-person visit by the author of the course, Eric Berger, an NU College of Law professor, to lead further discussion.

They Called Us “Roosians”

LIF026L

German speaking immigrants from Russia settled in Lincoln in the last part of the 19th and early years of the 20th century. They lived primarily in the Lincoln neighborhoods known as the North and South Bottoms. If you walked around these areas in the 1900-1930's you were apt to hear more German than English being spoken. At one time, one quarter of Lancaster County residents were of German Russian descent. The German Russians had a profound influence on the city of Lincoln due to their excellent work ethic, frugality, and love for their new country. The German Russians brought with them a rich cultural heritage.

We will focus on some of the main important aspects of these immigrants' lives.

Conservation Easements: A Critical Voluntary Tool

The permanent conservation of private land through voluntary agreements known as conservation easements or agricultural land easements has grown tremendously in the last 30 years. We will look at easements' conservation goals, flexibility to meet goals, and touch on economic and property tax aspects of easements. We will focus on agricultural land easements which are designed to assure the conservation of working farms and ranches. Specific examples will describe how and where Nebraska Land Trust has employed these agreements to permanently conserve agricultural, historical, and natural resources in some of Nebraska's most treasured landscapes. Brief video clips of farm and ranch owners will let them explain why their easements matter and show some of the beautiful and valuable landscapes preserved. Finally, we will touch on potential threats to the continued use of this valuable tool in Nebraska.

Meet the Artists at WallSpace-LNK

ART077L

WallSpace-LNK was designed as a place where artists, including the owner, could take charge of the process of showing their work and initiate and curate their own exhibitions without going through the traditional gallery middleman. This new concept is now in its second year at the corner of 17th and Sumner. Artists who have shown work include Stephen Dinsmore, Ted Kooser, Roger Bruhn, Michael James, Jan Christensen, Madeline Cass and Robin Smith. Traditional First Friday receptions and regular gallery hours give viewers limited opportunities to see the artwork and interact with the artists. OLLI members will be able to enjoy in-depth dialogue with the artists about their work on display, their artistic journeys, their motivations, the arc of their careers and how today's work fits into it all.

Unmatched & Unequaled: America's Contributions to Victory in World War II (Part 1) – 6 sessions

When Americans discuss World War II, they rightfully recall how its economy, manpower, transportation, and military innovations contributed to victory. We will examine America's crucial innovations that Allied or Axis belligerents could not match or equal. America's creation, development, and use of the Marine Corps' amphibious assault, the Navy's carrier aviation, and an introduction to U.S. Strategic bombing. If America had not developed these innovations, our world would be severely different and doubtfully for the better.

Unmatched & Unequaled: America's Contributions to Victory in World War II (Part 2) – 5 sessions

In this second part of the course, we will examine the war experience of U.S. Strategic Bombing as well as the home front's skilled manpower, powerful economy, and dynamic transportation all combined to achieve victory far sooner and with fewer lives lost. America's investment of time, lives, and money in these innovations over several decades before the nation's entry into the war paid the ultimate dividend: Allied victory.

A Safe Drive Through the Aging Process – 1 session

Solar @ Scale – 1 session

Get ready for a deep dive into how local government policies and actions affect community-scale solar development outcomes. This presentation considers the systems thinking approach needed for local governments to transition to green electricity generation. This presentation will explain “net zero” and efforts by Nebraska public utilities, especially Lincoln

Electric System, to achieve it. Understand the efforts in the Nebraska legislature to impede the move toward green electricity and reduce public input in how public utilities are run.

Nebraska Public Media – 4 sessions

Nebraska Public Media has been connecting Nebraskans for nearly 70 years. Ron Hull and Rod Bates share adventures of the founding years and growth in following decades as digitization enabled the state's TV and radio network to reach farther and deeper. Exeter, Nebraska native and UNL College of Journalism graduate Jeff Zeleny is CNN's Chief National Affairs Correspondent. He has practiced journalism at the Chicago Tribune, the New York Times, ABC News, and now, CNN. He has covered the past four presidents and the past five presidential campaigns. Jeff discusses the issues he is currently covering, his observations about the political situation in the U.S. today, and answers questions posed to him.

Why Are We So Politically Divided? – 4 sessions

The Presidency of Donald Trump ushered in a seemingly unprecedented level of polarization and acrimony. This intensity may not be a coincidence as the differing preferences of Trump's supporters and Trump's opponents reflect a timeless, foundational societal division. By paying particular attention to the issue objectives distinguishing Trump's strongest supporters from those who are not his strongest supporters—especially those who are not his strongest supporters but still label themselves ideologically conservative, UNL Foundation Regents Professor, Dr. John Hibbing, explores the reasons for the current, somewhat dismal, state of politics and democracy. Whatever your own political beliefs, it is valuable to understand the motivations of those who disagree with you.
